

MEMBERSHIP

Membership is open to qualified scholars who undertake teaching or research activities in fields germane to law and religion and to individuals participating in the work of relevant institutions and to other experts interested in the same fields. Students recommended by members of the organization may become associate members. Institutional memberships are also available. For more detailed information, see the ACLARS Constitution, available on the organization's website.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

- Right to attendance at all ACLARS events
- Right to vote and hold office in the organization
- Recommending other individuals or institutions to become members
- Priority consideration for invitation to present at ACLARS Conferences
- Discounts or waivers from ACLARS conference registration fees
- Possible subsidies for member-presenters at ACLARS conferences
- Opportunities to participate and present in ACLARS online activities
- Opportunity to be selected for inclusion in ACLARS publications
- Access to electronic ACLARS publications
- Discounted membership in International Consortium for Law and Religion Studies (includes electronic subscription to Oxford Journal of Law and Religion)
- Exposure of selected bio information and publications on available ACLARS media platforms as these evolve
- Networking with other ACLARS members

BECOMING A MEMBER

An individual or institution seeking membership shall be nominated by a member of the Board of Directors or shall apply for membership to the ACLARS Secretariat. More information as well as an online application form is available at the ACLARS website, www.aclars.org/membership.

Commencing January 1, 2020, the membership fee is US$50.00 per year. By paying an additional US$30.00, individuals may become members of the International Consortium for Law and Religion Studies (ICLARS) and are then eligible for an electronic subscription to the Oxford Journal of Law and Religion. Information about paying dues online is available at www.aclars.org/dues.